SUPPLEMENT TO REPORT NO.

1. Two barracks installations, the southern one an air force, the other one an artillery school, were located 1 of 2 km southwest of the Kiev (Kiyev) (50°27'N/30°32'E) railroad station, just northwest of a main street running southwest from the railroad station. A spur track running southwest along the main street was between the two installations.
2. The students of the air force school were blue-bordered light blue specialists with an insignia resembling an aircraft. Young soldiers, older NCOs and many officers were seen at this school. The NCOs and officers wore war decorations. All the students were well dressed and showed good military bearing. Officer replacements were believed to be trained there.
3. Another installation, usually called the Air Force Ministry, was under construction about 1 1/2 km southwest of the main railroad station, just southeast of a main street running southwest, north of a cemetery, and opposite a police barracks which adjoined an ammunition dump on the northeast. Work on the construction of this installation was started in early 1949. It was believed to be scheduled for completion no earlier than late 1950. The installation consisted of three three-story brick and steel structures of 30x50 meters each. In April 1950 the framework of all the three buildings was completed. The installation was guarded by the MVD.
